

Abstract of the Disclosure

[0031] A modular platform is provided. The modular platform includes a chassis having a front side and a back side, and configured to receive modular platform boards, a plenum associated with the chassis and at least one chassis management module removably disposed in the at least one plenum in a substantially parallel relationship with a flow of a cooling medium passing through the plenum.